TO NOTE: WILL BE EXPLAINED LATER :)

Ugh... All right. This is what happened...

Legend of the School
Rooftop #1 :

Cupid's Chocolates

On the second Sunday of May

If you offer chocolates

And pray to Cupid, the god of love, and wish for the magic that can make your love come true...

Two days ago, a girl made such a wish...

 A girl with long black hair and a red flower on her head is looking out from a balcony. The background is a blue sky with white clouds. The text "Two days ago, a girl made such a wish..." is written in a stylized font at the top.

After the girl left,

Let me
make your wishes
come true!

Metata, Cupid-in-training

Ahhaha... Appearances don't matter, right? Since they're going to function the same way... Ahahaha...

I can't believe we have to get so many things for the cultural festival...

To make me
carry the ingredients
when I'm not even part of the competition... How frustrating...

WIND BLOWING

Just end
the cultural
festival
already...

WHO TOOK AWAY
MY CHOCOLATES?!!

After I did some investigating, I found out that it
was you who took away the chocolate
cake.

S-s-s, yes...

So now what? I have a bad feeling
about this...

Cupid's chocolates
will make the person who eats it
generate wonderful memories of being in love...

So everyone who ate the chocolate
cake that
day,

Will now have memories of you being her lover!

WHAT?!!

Translation Notes

Professor Do is a character from the Korean drama series, You Who Come From The Stars.

The reasons as to why the author used him as a reference:

1. Korean dramas are pretty popular in China, especially among teenage girls and teenagers.
2. Professor Do is a time-traveling alien.

Of all time travelers, Professor Do?

Yep, because the author is probably a fan of the actor, Kim Seon-hyun. That guy has quite a number of fangirls...

That concludes this chapter. Sorry for bogging you down with extra useless information :P

Anyways, see you in Chapter 31 :)
